SLAVERY AND INFIDELITY.-A correspon dent of the State Gazette, published at Austin, Texas, tells the Southern people to stick to the Bible and Slavery; that wherever the Bible is circulated and believed in Slavery will be upheld, and finishes off his product tion thus:

"The Southern people are overwhelmingly, nay almost universally, believers in the re-vealed word of God as contained in the Old and New Testament; not one Southern man in a thousand is an infidel, and not one woman (God bless our noble, pure-minded Southern women,) in ten thousand, from Mason and Dixon's line to the Rio Grande, is an infidel. Not so in the North. Infidelity is there ranning riot, rampant, and flushed with success, is uproofing the foundations of society. Then, sir, the men and women of the South will accept and abide by Holy Writ on the Slavery question.

RUSSIAN SLAVERY .- The plan of Czar ALEXANDER for the emancipation of the serfs in his dominions, is in the course of steadily working itself out, and though slowly, it will surely create a free people. ship, the admirer of his wonderful powers, Mr. PARKER could hardly fail to gather materials for a delightful memoir.

The result of his labors is now presented and, while not without some serious faults, it is entitled to the praise of a fathful and interesting collection of reminiscenses. Mr. PARKER's style is seldom elegant; and often incorrect. Crudeness in some and turquidity in other portions, detract from its excellence. It wants the easy, graceful and simple purity of narrative which is anjessential of good biographical composition. But the want of finish is in part owing to haste in writing; and the occasional extravagance of furnishes, no doubt, a pretty fair synopsis of the language, reminding one sometimes of its contents. there were members in the Southern Opposition he would gladly vote for.

Hill said neither he or his associates would feel so shocked as to go out of the Union if an Anti-Lecompton or English Bill Demoorat should be chosen Speaker of the House. The gent. from Ohio, Mr. Cox, had stated his insuperable objection to voting for a South American, and excused himself for not giving aid and comfort to that party.

Now, said Hill, we can get along without you. (Laughter.) You will not make a Speaker on the basis of the proposition offer-d, because this is not the time.

Mr. Hill remarked that he understood Mr. Cox to say that he looked on Southern Opposition and the Republican party as identical in opposition to the Democratic party. Cox meant as to the matter of slavery in the Territories, and the admission of States. He understood that Southern Opposition advo-cated the intervention of Congress to protect slavery, and the Republican party as claim-ing the exercise of Congressional power to prohibit slavery in the Territories. Both these parties favor the re-opening of this agitating question in Congress, while the Democratic party says to both, non-intervention.

Mr. Brabson said he had heard there was Mr. Braceson said he had heard there was a party here which was willing to support men in the South who were not Know Nothings. Murder at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 28-9 P. M. A man named Edward Olt was found des in Rogue's Creek, in the eastern part of the city, this morning. Upon examination it was found that he had been shot twice thro' the body. The Coroner held an inquest on the body to-day, but the facts elicited give no clue to the murder.

Fire at Detroit. DETROIT, Dec. 28th—9 P. M.
The building on Woodward avenue occupied by Miller & Judd, Grocers, was burned last night. Loss in building and stock $18,000; insured for $9,000.

ACTUAL STATISTICS OF METHODISM .-- The statistics of the Methodists are rendered, annually, with more precision than is usual with large religious bedies, as its ecclesiastical system affords peculiar facilities for the collection and classification of such facts. We take the following table from the Christian Advocate and Journal:

Methodist Melscopal Church, North, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Canada Wesheyan Conference, Eastern British American Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, Conada, American Westeyan Methodists, Mothodist Protestant Church, Canada, African Methodist Episcopal Church, African Methodist Episcopal Church, African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, Altright Methodists

THE AUTHOR of the "Cobweb Club" gets off something occasionally in the Sunday Times, which if not very brilliant, is to the point, for instance :

A SUDGMENT ON THE SOUTH. Three hundred southern students boil,
In dudgeon, from the Quaker City,
O worthy broadbrins I thank your stars:
The South, and not the North needs pity!
When thirty score of follipop youths,
Oranna's full of altopathic knowledge—
With skill to physic, drench and sweath—
Are all let loose from Doctor's college!
Ye god if well may each southern village
Prepare to bleeth—and look for pill-age!

We intend these considerations for our reflecting business men, who have the good of the city, and of the young men at heart. It is important that they should see their duty in its true light, and we trust that these remarks will be received as prompted solely by an earnest wish for the advancement of a substantial and counmodious school house, overtainly the most tasteful thing of the kind, in its architecture. his shirt-sleeves, on the top of the third flight of stairs, giving orders to a small army of men who are working the ropes of the hatchway. THE TIME BALL.—Messrs. Thomas Tileston and Royal Phelps, who offered to furnish a time ball for New York City have nish a time ball for New York City have asked the permission of Mr. Secretary Cobb to place the pole upon the Custom House, that being a higher elevation than the Exchange, and they believe better adapted for the purpose. There appears to be no doubt that Mr. Colb will comply with the request. The time ball will be of wood, six feet diameter, and painted red. The method of its operation is as follows:—Shortly previous to the hour of noon—which is the only hour to the nour of noon—which is the only nour indicated by the apparatus—the ball is raised by a rope and pulley to the top of the flagstaff, where it is retained in its position by a "catch." At the precise moment of noon, as calculated for New York, an electric ourrent is sent from the Dudley Observatory at Albany, over the wires of the Hudson River Railroad, connecting with the top of the Allamy, over the wires of the threads. Railroad, connecting with the top of the staff. This current, by means of a simple contrivance, withdraws the 'catch' and suffers the ball to drop. The globe which plays easily through its centre upon the staff, falls trifle over a second of time, and comes down with some momentum, but is arrested ball, having accomplished its object for the day, remains at the foot of the pole until the next day, shortly-before twelve, when it is again placed in position. THE WEATHER AND THE RIVER AT ST. Will they Render Good for Evil? Will they Reader Good for Esti:

The Sensited is gratified to find that one Democratic newspaper in the North condemns the majority in the U.S. Sensate, for constituting the Senate committees in such a way as to give the South the control of all the important committees. Several Democratic papers have condemned them for it, and if John Sherman is elected peaker of the House of Representatives, as all the Espublicans practice, we expect that he with heap coals of fire upon the heads of the Southerners, by ignoring all party and geographical divisions. If he does not, however, and treats the South in the House as the South have the North in the Senate, then we shall turn to them and ask "what better are ye than they."—
News of yesterday.

It will be time enough for the News to ask

It will be time enough for the News to ask this question when the Republican majority in the House manifests 20 giaring a disregard of the rights of minorities and such an intensely selfish and sectional spirit, as has been displayed by the Democratic majority in the Senate. For it is not only Southern Senators who were parties to this wrong .-The Northern Democratic Senators all votest for the caucus arrangement of the Committees. and only one of them, Mr. Puun, could pluck up spirit enough to protest against the outrage.

Slavery in Nebraska.

The bill which passed the Nebraska Hous of Representatives, to abolish and prohibit Slavery in that Territory, has been defeated in the Senate. Here is the record from the Omaha Nebraskian of Dec. 21st: IN THE TERRITORIAL COUNCIL, DEC. 20, 1859.

The bill to prohibit slavery in the Territory of Ne marka was taken up on its second reading. Mr. Little moved that the bill be indefinitely post poord.

The question occurring on the motion, Mr. Taylor demanded the ager and nays.

The ages and nays were then taken, which resulted as follows: The syes had high were then taken, when its olders a follows: Ayes—Messes, Collier, Doane, Little, Miller, Reeves, Scott and Mr. President—T.
Nays—Messes. Boykin, Cheever, Dundy, Furnas, Porter and Topfor—6.
So the bill was study in tiely postponed.
Quite a large crowd had collected in front of the bar gending the disposal of the slavery bill, and when the vote was taken, the Council Chamber was densely crowded. Then the amountement of the vote considerable confusion was created by the chaers and stamping of feet from the lobby, in exultation of the defeat of the bill.

In an additional action, and or the caption.

In an editorial article, under the caption " bead as a Smelt." the Nebraskian exults over the defeat of the bill as a great Demo cratic triumph. Of course it is, and these are about the only "triumphs" that Sham Democracy wins, now-a-days. The Sannte Committees Complete.

THE NEW YORK UNION, SAVING MEETING. -The Baltimore Patriot thus speaks of the New York meeting to save the Union: the New York meeting to save the Union:

The only redeeming hature of this whole affair, is
Mr. Fillmore's admirable letter. It marches right up to the question involved, and meets it square in the face. It points with uncerning inner to the Pandora's lox, whence all our, present troubles spring and fixes the mark of Cain upon the forehead or the Catiline who,
in an evil hour, apened it, after it had been closed by
Mr. Fillmore's administration by consent of all parties.
It shows with the clearness of a neridian sun, that we

ASSESSMENTS AT THE CUSTON-HOUSE.—Since the Collector's return from Washington, another forced contribution has, we are told, been laid on the poor Oustom-House officials. A subscription book has been prepared which reads: "The undersigned agree to pay to Augustus Schell, Esq., the sums set opposite their respective names, for the use of the National Democratic Committee, etc.," and each clerk has been forced to pay five dollars. Now we should like to know who authorized this collection, and to what purpose it is intended to apply the indeep? The National Committee requires but little money? The National Committee requires but little money prior to the Presidential election and that little should have been relaced among the members of the Committee or from those Castom House officials who have recently been column from the distribution of "fines, penalities and forfeitures." Pennsylvania Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 1, 1859.

Your letter of the 25th, having been missent to Harrisburg, Va., was not received until this morning. Of all the desperadoes to whom you refer, not a man, so far as I can learn, was a citizen of Pennsylvania; nor was their rendezvous, which, you say, was "unobstructed by guard or otherwise?" in this state but in Maryland or Virginia. In relation to them, Pennsylvania has done her duty. Virginia has no right to anticipate that she will not do so in the future. The information you have received in regard to a conspiracy to rescue John Brown, will, undoubtedly, be found in the sequel utterly and entirely without foundation, so far as Pennsylvania is concerned. Nor will we permit any portion of our territory, along our borders or elsewhere, to be made a depot, a rendezvous or a refuge for "lawiess desperadous" from other States, who may seek to make war upon our southern neighbors.—When that contingency shall happen, the constitutional and confederate duty of Pennsylvania shall, be performed, and, under all constitutions we will take care to See asylvania shall be performed, and, under all circumstances, she will take care to see that her honor is fully vindicated.

The Capital House.—We took dinner at the Capital House the other day and arose from the table a satisfied man. We were unhered to a seat in the roomy dining hall by the courteous George, and called for what we wanted from an ample bill of fare, and found that the various dishes were well cooked and very pairatable. What with an elegant y arranged dinner table—a choice bill of fare, attentive waiters a discreet steward and celebrated cook, the Capital House is on a par, in unostentations accommodation, with the beat houses in the State. Dutcher as the welcoming landitord, and George and Parsons as courteous nesidators, compose a batch of entertainers that can't be beat in attention to guests and the exercise of gentlemanly qualities.—Mantison Patriot.

This reminds us to say, for the benefit of This reminds us to say, for the benefit of those of our readers who may visit Madison during the winter, that the Capital House has undergone extensive repairs, is now in complete order, and offers all the comforts of a neat; well-furnished and well-conducted lifet to visitors from different parts of the little to visitors from different parts of the little to visitors from different parts of the little to visitors from different parts of the state that there were tracks of one or two men at the back door. When the Divine insti-Drad Soott decision. When the Divino insti-tution shall prevail in the States now free, then the Democracy will become a national party. Until then, it is an unprincipled sec-tional faction. We challenge any Doughface in the Union to point out a single item in the creed of the slave Democracy that is not repudiated and spit upon by the people of every free State except California, or that could be applied to any free State without rain to its best interests.

Besides their devotion to the extension of slavery, which is a blighting curse to all free enterprise, they are opposed to River and Harbor improvements, to a Homestead Law, to encouragement to American labor and industry of every kind, and to all measures designed to develope the resources of the free States. Upon all these subjects they are with the South against the North. At the dictation of the slave-breeders, they have for years bitterly resisted every measure not designed exclusively for the benefit of the South

DIRING ROBBERY

The Receiver of the U. S Land Office Gag-ged and Bound, and $5,000 taken from the Safe.

·From the Eau Claire Free Press-Extra. EAU CLAIRE, Dec. 24, 1859. This village was thrown into a high state of excitement last evening, by the perpetration of one of the most during robberies of which we have any recoilection. About 9 o'clock in the evening, N. B. Boyden, receiver of public money for the Chippewa Land District, was gagged, and bound hand and foot, and the Government safe was robbed of $5,280. He was sitting in his office at his counter, with his back to the door, about 9 o'clock in the evening, haking up at his counter, with his back to the door, about 9 o'clock in the evening, making up his account with the Government, preparatory to leaving for Dubuque in to day's stage with the Government finds, when a person entered the door, turned the key and stepped up behind Mr. Boyden and put out the light with one hand and placing the other over his mouth, in an instant the rober insarted an instrument in Mr. B.'s mouth with which he pried it wide open, and then stuffed a handkerchie! In it which prevented him from calling out for assistance or making stuffed a handkerchief in it which prevented him from calling out for assistance or making an alarm—at the same time presenting a pistol at his head and threatening him with instant death if he made the least noise. The next moment he passed a bed cord with a slip noose, around his left wrist (Mr. B. has but one arm) bringing it instantly to his back and raising Mr. B.'s right foot, tied his wrist and ankle together; passing a cord around his body and across his mouth, he then bound him to the legs of the large writing desk which stands in the same room, and in that condition left him laying on the floor, face downwards. He then sprang over the counter and took from the safe, which happened to be open, the amount of money happened to be open, the amount of money as above stated, and went out the front door All this must have been done in less than eight minutes. Mr. Boyden lay in this coudition probably not to exceed ten minutes, dition probably not to exceed ten minutes, meanwhile came very near straughing to death. He managed after a few moments to get one foot against the window-sill, thus making a noise which, with his grouns at the content of the offer where tracted several parties to his office, where they found him as stated above, wet with perspiration. Parties were dispatched in all directions, but up to 12 o'clock at noon, to-day, no traces are had of the robbers. Mr. but a few minutes before. There was also a large dancing party at Reed's Hall, only a short distance away, at which those occupying adjoining offices were present.

The facts relating to the passport are those — I called at 24 Portland place, the these:—I called at 24 Portland place, the office of the American Minister, Honorable Mr. Dallas, with my passport, which I obtained before I left the United States. I asked to have it vised for the purpose of going to Paris. The Secretary said I was not a citizen of the United States, and he could not sign it. I informed him that I was a latter of Salam in the State of Massa-Salem, in the State of chasetts and Massachusetts acknowledged cansetts, and Massachushtts and obviously and the fact of my having the passport was the proof of citizenship.—

The Secretary still refused to sign it; and said I ought to be satisfied with his refusal. During the conversation, I turned to my sister and said, "Thank God, we are in a country where our pights are respected, and sister and said, "Thank God, we are in a country where our rights are respected, and I have no doubt we can obtain passports which will take us to France." This remark called forth from this gentlemanly secretary this reply, "If you do not cease this conversation, I will have you put out of this house." Most earnestly would I ask all who read this letter, to judge what the spirit of a country is that will allow such treatment to its citizens—the spirit which employes four willions of men and women.

WINTER SCENES.

The leaves have fallen from the trees,
The aider trembles at the door;
And like the surge of angry seas.
The mod storin moans across the moo!
The frosts are precling the panes,
With many a quaint and rave device;
About the leafless willage lanes,
Are seen unbroken spots of ice!

The rime upon the edge-row seems More purely white than ermine robe; The solemn am but weakly beame— Hangs in the sky like blood-red globe. The poor birds filt from spray to spray, A dense nist hangs upon the wold; A dense mist hangs upon the wold; And in the dayllight waxes grey, Like snoke from heavy ordnance rolled! Deep silence reigns in every vale. No streamlet tickles as it flows.

Save when struck by the northern gale, That harps in thunder as it blows! The by round the softing door Looks perished in the dim cold light; And round our boyes the real winds. And strike with all their greating migh

The holly's muffled with the snow,
Thro' which the rubbed berries peep
like drope of coral, while below
The river's bound in icy sleep!
We list the north with thunder tone
Rock giant trees from root to crown,
While massive clouds look Sad and lone
And with a sullen grandeur frown!

The snow flakes fall in recling showers,
In many wild and grotesque forms;
And soon the hills appear like towers—
The bulwarks of the rolling storms!
And day, storm-vanquished, coldly dies,
When night in savage glory relgns;
With snow-bound earth and unstarred skies,
Amid the howl of burricanes!

THE MULE DRIVER.

From the Records of a French Detective. I had some renown as a successful rogue catcher; and had some experience, too. My field of operations, as a usual thing, lay within the confines of the Department of the Lower Alps; and though I served under the Sub-Prefect of the third Arrondissement, yet TS PERMANENTLY LOCATED IN ONE

| Comparison of the Department called upon my whom he chose. One morning—it was in the large number of patients. Experienced nurses are constantly employed to attend all patients at the Dure. Dr. Seeley is the attending physician, whose renutation is unequaled in the entire west of our Sub-Prefect, so I had nothing to do but set ready and start. I took an early discontinuous contraction of the Department called upon my whom he chose. I reached Dings just at nightfall, and as soon as it was dark I waited on the Prefect. He seemed to be relieved when he saw me, and took me to his private closet.

"Now," said I, "have you got work for me?",
"Yes," he replied. "Sit down and list-n."
We sat down and he proceeded:—"Within a few months past, there have been some of the most mysterious murders committed in the Department of War, that have ever single trial marriably secures them the title of the pest family medicine one whefore the public. His body was found by the roadside, near the line between the two De-partments; and at first it was supposed that he must have fullen there and died in a fit, s no mark of violence could be found upon him. His pockets had been rifted, however. The next one was found near Annot, and under the same circumstances. He was a merchant, also, and from Nice. Since then, five or six more have died upon the same road in this mysterious way, and no marks of ill-usage have been found upon any of them, then then all then not been reproduct. hem; but they have all been robbed.

"Have most of them stopped in Castellane ?'' I asked. The Perfect told me they had.

"And I suppose they must have put up at the same inn there?" I remarked.

"Yes," said the Perfect. "Yes," said the Perfect.

I then supposed that some of the landlords must be concerned. But my companion informed me that they bad been narrowly watched, and that no shadow of evidence

You must go to Castellane at once, and there you can get such further information as the Sub-Perfect can give you."

After conserving a while longer with the Prefect, he let me have a suit of ordinary tradesman's clothing, and thus habited, I went to a hotel and put up for the night—In the morning I procured a horse and set out, reaching Catellane before moon. During the day I proteuded to be doing heripess. the day I pretended to be doing business. — I went to the woolen factory and examined a lot of stuff, and also visited several places a lot of stuff, and also visited several places where preserved fruits were put up. I learned that most of the people who came there on business put up at an inn kept by a man named Juan Fontaix; so I left my horse there, and engaged lodgings.

After dark I called on the Sub-Prefect.—He told me that he had used all the means within his power, but had been able to gain no clue to the guilty party. Most of the murdered victims had been from Marseilles, and the excitement in that city was intense. Gendarmes had been sent out upon all the roads, and secret police had also been upon the watch. The last victim had fallen only four or five days before, and the deed was done only fifteen minutes after the police had passed the spot.

I asked the Sub-Prefect if he had any suspicions. He answered that all the suspicion he held, was fastened upon Juan Fontaix, the inn-keeper. Nearly all the nurdered men had stopped at his house, and he must have known something of their business.

I bade the officer keep perfectly quiet, not even to let one of his own men know of my presence. Then I returned to the inn, and inally entered in presence to the conversation with welface.

presence. Then I returned to the inn, and finally entered into conversation with my loss upon the subject of the mysterious deaths NEXT TO WISCONSINST. He pronounced it wonderful, and assured me DIANOS FOR RENT CONSTANTLY ON that it had injured him more than he could tell.

I was soon satisfied that Juan Fontaix knew nothing of the guilty party. He was very fearful, and at times blanched and trembled at the thought. Most people would have seen in this signs of guilt; but I tho't differently. differently.

I spent all the next day in town, ostensibly engaged in business with the factories, but in reality hunting after some clue to the object of my mission. Night came again but I had found nothing new. I was perfectly satisfied that the murderer had laid his plans so deeply that no circumstantial clue could be found.

If I would find him, I must catch him with ly that no circumstantial clue could be found.

If I would find him, I must catch him with the preof upon him.

I had given an assumed name at the inn, and stated that I belonged to Touton. On the next morning I called for my bill, and informed my hist that I was off for home. Then I went to the fruit preserver's and told him the same, stating that I must confer with my partner before I concluded my bargain. After this I went to the woolen factory, and saw the business agent. His name was Louis Cazanbon, and he had come to Castellane about a year before. He seemed to be a straight-forward business man, and yet he was the only person that I had seen whom I had thought of suspecting. In conversing upon the nurders, he had been a little too free and off-handed, treating the subject more coolly than a man with a heart would be apt to do. But still I had thus far been able to find nothing against him. On the present occasion I told him, as I told the others, that must return to Toulon.

"If you have not the ready with you, we can give you credit," he said.

I told him I had plenty of money, but I was not fully prepared to pay the prices he had demanded. He said, "Very well," and added, that he should be happy to sell me when I came again. I bade him good day and then departed. As soon as I was alone I began to suspect Monsieur Louis Cazanbon in earnest. When I told him I had money, but did not purchase, because he charged me too much, why didn't he banter me? Simply Medical Profession and the Family. ossesses those intrinsic medicinal properties, "onic and Diaretic] which belong to an OLD AND PURE GIN.

The business of manufacturing spurious Gins, and offering them as beverages, under the titles, "Argmatic," "Weldingted," dee, has become no common that the public are justly suspicious of nearly everything that is offered under similar forms, and the trade has thus been brought into dirrepate. It has remained for our nouse (established in 1778) to supply the prevening nopular need, and to issurgants our established reputation—formed upon eighty years of experience—abundantly vindicates our claim to public confidence.
